

Accountability statement for online training service

1. Subject of the training course

This training course refers to the tuning of a single specific vehicle for which the course purchased is aimed. The vehicle's data are as indicated in the training course. The information provided in the online training course is therefore valid and can be used for the specific indicated vehicle only.

2. User Responsibilities

The course is devised to provide You with all the necessary knowledge to correctly and safely use the hardware and software provided by Alientech S.r.l., according to the best science, experience, studies, and tests carried out by Alientech Srl.

It is therefore of paramount importance that You pay the utmost attention when following every single part of the training course. Make sure You understood each single step and ask trainers clarifications for any doubt.

3. Limitations of liability

The instructions provided in the online training course apply only for the use of ECM Titanium tuning software provided by Alientech S.r.l.

Alientech S.r.l. does not ensure equal results if You use other tuning software and cannot be held liable if You do not use ECM Titanium software to tune your vehicle.

Regardless of the veracity of the instructions provided by Alientech S.r.l., correct tuning procedures, and Your diligence of employment, there is always a possibility that, due to occasional circumstances depending on the complexity and nature of the electronic equipment used to write the modified file, problems of various kinds may occur, even of serious entity, that may damage the vehicle's electronic or your equipment.

Alientech S.r.l. cannot be held liable for any damage to the vehicle if You do not follow the instructions provided in the training course meticulously and with extreme care. You need to pay the utmost attention during the editing of the modified files, checking that the commands selected and the values entered are correct before confirming the operation to be performed.

Furthermore, You declare to be aware that the recommended operations and the execution of the foreseen procedures are intended for the tuning of vehicles for sports purposes only that must be used on circuit to this dedicated, and that these operations and procedures act on the vehicle's operating parameters. These operations are therefore to be considered potentially dangerous and You take full responsibility on them.